Fire at Minneapolis Entailing a
Heavy Loss

A Fierce Fire.

By Associated Press.]
MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 26.—The fire in the Clare Speaker paint works, which started last night, was still raging at nine this morning, though under control. The damage to the property will be nearly $1,000,000, most of which is to the Lumber Exchange, a magnificent twelve-story block at Fifth St. and Hennepin Avenue. Robinson block and Russell block owned by Sol Smith Russell, the actor, was completely ruined. The fire caught in the upper story of the Lumber Exchange which was claimed to be fire proof, and burned fiercely. The water did not reach above the seventh or eighth story and the firemen were nearly powerless. St. Paul was called upon for aid and responded with two engines. The thermometer being below zero last night, the intense cold retarded the firemen a great deal, as the hose kept freezing and bursting. Occasionally from the wall on the upper floors, there showered rock, followed by a loud report. This noise was caused by the bursting stone. For some time these followed in rapid succession and then grew less frequently to an increase in the number again, when the fire grew intensely hot at some particular point.

After a fight of eleven hours, the fire department succeeded in confining to the four upper stories of the Lumber Exchange, the flames which it was thought at one time would certainly consume the entire building. The structure looked like a veritable ice palace after the fire. Walls up as high as the hose could reach and throw water, were covered a foot thick with ice, and the side walls piled from five to eight feet high with ice and snow formed from water. The losses have been greatly exaggerated; the total loss only foots up $162,000, divided as follows: Lumber Exchange, $75,000; insured for $60,000; Russell building, $20,000; insured, not known for how much; Robinson building, $3,000, fully covered by insurance; stock and plant, $40,000, insured for $25,000; Gardner and Co., $40,000, insured for $10,000; Lumber Exchange tenants, $20,000, insured for $10,000.

The Pope Displeased.

By Cable and Associated Press.]
ROME, Feb. 26.—The Pope has informed the Propaganda that he was exceedingly displeased with the last nominations for bishops in the United States and sent here for approval.

Upon representations made by American bishops as to the sad religious condition of Italian immigrants who land in the United States, the Propaganda, which is making an exhaustive study of the question under the Pope's order, has issued a pastoral letter addressed to the Italian bishops upon this subject. The letter states the Pope is greatly shocked at learning of the neglect which immigrants are subjected to, and announces his holiness has resolved to take measures to remedy this evil.

Jealous of the Germans.

By Cable and Associated Press.]
PARIS, Feb. 26.—An increased feeling of anxiety prevails here lest a sudden disturbance should occur here before the Empress Frederick leaves Paris. The plan which was looked upon as settled, by which French artists were to exhibit the products of their art in the Berlin exhibition has been abandoned. Details, the French artist, has finally yielded to the pressure brought to bear upon him and to-day announced that he had made a mistake in consenting to send some of his works to the German exposition, adding that he feels, upon reflection, it would not be patriotic to go to Berlin. Details also says all brother artists who are Frenchmen will abstain from being represented at Berlin.

The artistic question outlined by statements made by Details and other French artists is the chief topic of conversation throughout Paris and the provinces. At a reception held yesterday evening by Ribot, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Von Munster, the German Ambassador, threw the whole blame for the unpleasantness arising from the visit of the Empress upon Herbet, the French Ambassador at Berlin. This has given rise to considerable amount of diplomatic correspondence, by telegraph and otherwise, the outcome of which, it would seem, is that Herbet is most likely to be recalled from Berlin. That the action of the Parisians and the tone of the newspaper press of Paris will be deeply resented in Berlin, nobody for an instant doubts, and there are many people who look forward, not without a feeling of apprehension, to the effect the present unpleasantness may have upon the mind of the Emperor of Germany. Calmer minds, ever since the project to get the French artists to exhibit in Berlin, are speculating upon what effect it will be upon the people in Berlin, if for instance, the celebrated picture Details has given from the French point of view of incidents of the Franco-Prussian war of '70 and '71, which is glorifying to the French arms, is exposed at the exposition in the capital of Germany.

The Bourse is weak owing to the reports of articles unfavorable to France, arising from the feeling here over the visit of Empress Frederick, printed in the Cologne Gazette and other German newspapers.

Chilean Rebellion.

By Cable and Associated Press.]
BUENOS AYRES, Feb. 26.—Additional advices received here from Chili state that the bombardment of Iquique by the insurgents resulted in a great loss of life and heavy damage to property. After the surrender of the city the rebels entered and attacked the stores and residences on six principal squares and completely wrecked them. The buildings afforded shelter to a large number of women and children, but the insurgents were heedless of the rules governing civilized warfare and gave them no chance to escape, and pursued their work of destruction regardless of the frantic endeavors of the helpless occupants to seek a place of safety. It is known that women and children perished in the ruins of the sacked buildings. The insurgents seized the custom house and then pillaged all the principal houses in the city.

After General Soto, the commander of the government forces, surrendered the city the rebel leaders landed more troops from their vessel for the purpose of holding the place, and dispatched a force into the country with the object of meeting and engaging the government troops.

THE JUNCTION SHOOTING.

Charley Roberts Catches a Bullet in the Leg From the Accidental Discharge of a Pistol in the Hands of His Brother Bedford. Last night they had a chivari at the Junction House, twenty-six miles north of Reno, and every body got pretty well loaded with bug juice. As the party was about to break up Bedford Roberts pulled out a gun and struck a table, when the weapon was discharged, the ball entering the leg of his brother Charley, who was sitting near by putting on his overshoes. The wound is very painful, the ball having fractured the bones of leg just below the knee. The town was rife with rumors this morning of two of the Roberts boys having a shooting scrape, and it was reported that one of them stopped three bullets and the other four, but it turns out to be the accidental shooting of young Roberts, from the result of a drunken brawl.

A Sickening Sight.

By Associated Press.]
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—William West (colored) the murderer to be hanged to-day, attempted suicide this morning. He will be hanged between 10 and 2 o'clock unless he dies before. West stabbed himself in the neck with a rusty piece of iron concealed in his bed.

William West was hanged to-day for the murder of three members of the Crouch family, May 14th, 1890. The crime was one of the most deliberate and thorough ever committed in this section, and everything against the man has been purely circumstantial, yet convincing. West slept until 7:30 this morning. At 8:30 o'clock, while death watchers were changing, West secured a piece of iron concealed in his bed and jagged himself in the throat. He was rendered unconscious. Physicians were immediately summoned, but were unable to restore consciousness. Up to 2:30 when he was hanged his condition had not greatly changed. He was strapped to a board and carried to the scaffold. At 2:35 the trap was sprung and the rope broke. The murderer was in terrible distress and it took five men to hold him, though manacled. At 2:40 the rope was strung up again and this time the hanging was successful. At 2:48 West was pronounced dead. The hanging was horrible, and the occurrences connected with it created great excitement.

A Royal Time.

By Cable and Associated Press.]
PORTSMOUTH, Feb. 26.—Great throngs of people gathered here to see the Royal Pageant accompanying the launching of the new war ships. The Queen launched the iron-clads with the usual ceremonies. According to report, previous to the ceremony, while the Queen and Prince of Wales were standing beneath the bows of one of the ships, they quarreled for several minutes; both Queen and Prince, as the result of their quarrel, had an apoplectic appearance when it terminated. The cause of the royal quarrel is believed to have originated in some trifling breach of etiquette.

The two war vessels were christened 'Royal Arthur' and 'Royal Sovereign.'

To the southwest of the storm vortex a tongue of low pressure extends overlying the Atlantic States to Georgia. An area of high barometer follows these storm conditions, attended with a cold wave, which will reach the Atlantic and Gulf coasts to-day, with cold but generally clearing weather. Local snows are reported in the lower lakes, Ohio valley and south to Vicksburg. Light flurries of snow may occur with the cold wave in the interior Southern States and North Carolina. Cold and fair weather generally will prevail in most districts Friday and Saturday.

Proximity of Consumer and Producer.

Within the past five years a mill for rolling copper, brass, zinc, etc., has been established at Kenosha, Wis., which employs from one hundred and thirty to one hundred and fifty men. The copper comes from the Lake Superior country and the zinc from Illinois and Missouri. At first most of the product was shipped East for a market, but lately special machinery for manufacturing organ reeds and boards has been put in, and they propose supplying the Western market. Besides this two other companies have been formed, one employing two hundred and thirty operatives, to make other goods, the proximity of the mill, from which they get their raw material, being one of the chief sources of this success.

These businesses, so near this source of supplies of breadstuffs and meat, are due to the development of the copper and zinc industries of upper Michigan, Illinois and Missouri by the tariff. If, as under the "Walker tariff" of 1846, we had a scanty production of copper on our sea coast from imported ores, copper would not only now, as then, be costing from twenty-four to thirty cents per pound, but there would be no brass works at or near Kenosha, any more than without the increased production of pig iron in the South rolling mills and foundries would be springing up in that section of the country.

It is expected that large agricultural and other machine works will be inaugurated in Colorado within a short time. The basis for these industries is the already established pig iron production of that State. This is only another of many instances which might be cited where the presence of raw materials has developed large manufacturing operations, the difference between ourselves and the free raw material men being that they wish to keep our manufacturers dependent on other countries for their supplies, a dependency which involves not only the loss of profitably employed labor in production, with the consequent drain of our cash into foreign pockets, but also the control of the cost of our finished product, which must vary with the fluctuations in the price of raw material. All our readers know that in the last half of 1889 the price of pig iron in England nearly doubled, giving German manufacturers great trouble, while the price of pig iron here advanced but two dollars from June to December.

Protectionists, on the contrary, would in every way develop the production of raw material in this country, believing that it is an economic mistake to introduce an industry in any article where the raw material for its manufacture is controlled by a rival manufacturing nation.

Hill on Silver.

The advocates of free silver coinage will not gain much by making Governor Hill their Presidential candidate in place of Mr. Cleveland. In a speech addressed to Kings County Democrats Mr. Hill said: "In order to give internationality to our ratio, sixteen, it would be necessary to obtain beforehand the concordant voices of all the States of the European Continent and the simultaneous recognition of the gold franc, the gold mark, the gold florin, the gold ruble, while the single vote of Congress in favor of the general European ratio, fifteen and one-half, and the recognition of a single piece, namely, our silver dollar—should be sufficient for realizing everywhere an identical bimetallic ratio. Congress persists in making sixteen gold dollars weigh the same as one silver dollar, while fifteen and one-half is the monetary ratio, between gold and all the enormous stocks of silver coins existing in France, in Holland, in Spain, in Austria, in Germany, and in Russia."

The Call says: Mr. Hill thus appears to be in favor of bimetalism when the principal commercial powers of Europe shall agree upon a common ratio. The Government of the United States has had conference after conference with these powers in the hope of inducing them to coin silver and make it a full legal tender on an agreed ratio. Most other gold men favor bimetalism whenever an international agreement can be effected. What they oppose is, not so much bimetallism, as an attempt by the United States to maintain bimetalism in the face of all Europe. The difference between Hill and Cleveland is one of statement. Assuming that an international agreement cannot be secured, Mr. Cleveland declares for gold without qualification. Mr. Hill declares for gold until international agreement can be obtained. Mr. Hill adds to the difficulty of the silver problem by declaring for the ratio of fifteen and one-half to one in place of sixteen to one. On the European ratio the difference between the market value of the two metals will be greater than under the American ratio. He does not consider the fact that most other American countries than the United States put more silver into a dollar than the United States. The Mexican dollar for example, is worth more in the market than a 412 1-2 grain American dollar. Mr. Hill has apparently tried to create the impression that he is a bimetalist by declaring that under certain conditions he would be. Most other gold advocates would be bimetalists under the same conditions, but they frankly admit that there is no present prospect of realizing these, to them, indispensable conditions.

MIRA, THE WONDERFUL.

Something About Her and Other Changeable Stars.

In the Gospel according to St. Matthew we are told that the birth of Jesus at Bethlehem was heralded by the appearance of a strange star in the sky. Certain wise men of the East seem first to have noticed the star, and being impressed with the belief that it was a Divine omen, they hurried to Jerusalem to make inquiry of the reigning King. It is further related that, when the wise men journeyed on toward Bethlehem, from Jerusalem, "the star which they saw in the East went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was."

This mysterious stellar appearance has been a fruitful subject of discussion between the faithful believers in the Scriptures on one hand and the material believers in astronomical facts on the other hand, says a writer in the Philadelphia Times. Astronomers are forced to admit, however, that strange stars have appeared in the heavens and then disappeared again as mysteriously as they came. Other stars, well known to astronomers, have regular periods of showing themselves to the naked eye, though they generally remain visible through the telescope as very faint stars after the unaided eye fails to see them.

There are hundreds of these so-called variable stars. One of the most remarkable was first noticed about three hundred years ago. It is Mira, the Wonderful, and is in the constellation Cetus. It appears at intervals of a little less than a year. When at its greatest brightness it resembles a star of the second magnitude. It thus continues about two weeks, then its brilliancy gradually decreases for about three months, when it becomes entirely invisible. After a disappearance of about five months it again faintly appears, and begins to brighten again.

Perhaps the most wonderful of all the strange stars, of which we have accurate knowledge, was that of 1572. It suddenly appeared as the brightest star in the firmament, outshining even Jupiter and Venus, and for a time was visible to the naked eye. This amazing visitant remained seventeen months. Its color was successively white, yellow, red and white again, and its position in the heavens was unchanged during the time it remained visible. This star was supposed by some astronomers to have regular periods of appearing, at intervals of about three hundred years, but the supposition has not been generally accepted.

What causes these seeming eccentricities of stars? The vast multitude of stars well known to astronomers are as stable in their positions and as unchangeable in their appearances as are the distant planets of the solar system. Are we to infer, then, that the variable or temporary stars are wayward members of the stellar family—black sheep in a well-behaved flock? Several hypotheses have been advanced to account for the strange freaks, but none thus far seems entirely satisfactory.

Canine Intelligence.

One of the intelligent dogs lives in Bar Harbor, Me., says the Kennebec Journal. He was carrying a paper the other day, when several canine companions began to bother him. He put the paper down on the ground and when a dog attempted to touch it sprang on him and gave him a good shaking. These tactics he repeated several times, till at last he could not get any dog to touch the paper, and then he quickly picked it up and walked away.

Wholesale Hanging.

It is not generally known that Henry VIII. hanged no fewer than 73,000 robbers, thieves and vagabonds, and that "Good Queen Bess," doubtless affected by her royal father's ferocious example, was in the latter part of her reign responsible for the slaughter of 300 or 400 criminals yearly. Turning to the year 1596, for example, we find that in the county of Somerset alone 40 persons were executed, 35 burned in the hand and 57 severely whipped.

JOTTINGS.

Jokes about umbrellas keeping Lent are taboos this year. C. A. Thurston keeps good cigars and cigarettes until he sells them.

As the world goes now, the man who loses his grippe is not wholly lost. Try your grip on a schooner of beer and a hot lunch at Jake Becker's.

Pedagogue—Can you give me a sentence illustrating the difference between mind and matter? Tommy—Yes! When I don't mind pretty soon they're somethin' in matter! He boards at the Riverside Hotel, as a reward of merit.

"Yes," said old Aunt Wisdom, "I cut out every good thing I see in the papers; but what puzzles me is that the best articles are by mentioning some cure." She needs a new pair of spectacles, and ought to call at Richard Herz's and get them.

Its Excellent Qualities.

Commend to public approval the California Liquid Fruit Remedy, Syrup of Figs. It is pleasant to the eye, and to the taste, and by gentle action on the kidneys, liver and bowels. It cleanses the system effectually, and thereby promoting the health and comfort of all who use it.

Oh, What an Awful Breath.

There is nothing more healthful than onions. The trouble is that persons are afraid to eat them because they make the breath unfragrant. But there is a less fragrant breath than that freighted with onions. We mean the breath of a person with a foul stomach. Take him away! We inwardly cry when he whippers in our ear. Do see that your breath is pure. Take a few Brandreth's Pills and regulate your liver, stomach and bowels and your breath will be sweet.

Several years ago Chamberlain & Co., of Des Moines, Iowa, commenced the manufacture of a cough syrup, believing it to be the most prompt and reliable preparation yet produced for coughs, colds and croup; that the public appreciate true merit, and in time it was certain to become popular. Their most sanguine hopes have been more than realized. Over three hundred thousand bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy are now sold every year, and it is recognized as "the best made" wherever known. It will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment. For sale by Shoemaker & Co., druggists.

The New Discovery.

You have heard your friends and neighbors talking about it. You may yourself be one of the many who know from personal experience just how good a thing it is. I you have ever tried it, you are one of its staunch friends, because the wonderful thing about it is, that when once given a trial, Dr. King's New Discovery ever after holds a place in the house. If you have never used it and should be afflicted with a cough, cold, or any Throat, Lung or Chest trouble, secure a bottle at once and give it a fair trial. It is guaranteed every time, or money refunded. Trial bottle free at Wm. Pinniger's drug store.

There is no danger of a cold resulting in pneumonia when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used as directed.

"For a severe cold." It is effectually counteracts and arrests any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia. This fact was wholly proven in thousands of cases during the epidemic of influenza last winter. For sale by Shoemaker & Co., druggists.

The First Step.

Perhaps you are down, can't eat, can't sleep, can't think, can't do anything to your satisfaction, and you wonder what ails you. You should heed the warning, you are taking the first step into Nervous Prostration. You need a nerve tonic, and in Electric Bitters you will find the exact remedy for restoring your nervous system to its normal, healthy condition. Surprising results follow the use of this great nerve tonic and alterative. Your appetite returns, good digestion is restored and the Liver and Kidneys resume healthy action. Try a bottle. Price 50c, at Wm. Pinniger's Drug Store.

How to Break up a Severe Cold.

From the Virginia City, Mont. Advertiser. When we find a medicine we know to possess genuine merit, we consider it a duty, and we take pleasure in telling the public what it is. Such a medicine we found Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. By the use of this syrup we have relieved, in a few hours, severe colds, and in the course of two or three days, entirely broken them up as has several of our friends to whom we have recommended it. It is all it is represented to be by the manufacturers. If you have a cough and want to stop it, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will do the work. Sold by Shoemaker & Co., druggists.

Life will acquire new zest, and cheerfulness return, if you will impel your liver and kidneys to the performance of their functions. Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Stimulant stimulates them to healthful action. Price 50 cents a bottle.

GENERAL SHERMAN.

His Personal Traits and Characteristics.

General Sherman was of a tall and spare figure. He had what is called an iron constitution. He never showed signs of fatigue, and was tireless in going about seeking amusement and entertaining when not engaged in the performance of his duties. At the War Department he was a close worker. He had great energy and great decision of character. He could transact business rapidly. He had keen intuitions and formed impressions as rapidly as a woman. He was a strange combination of iron self-control and passionate emotional capabilities. He rarely prepared himself for any speech-making. Nearly all of his remarks were off-hand, the ideas of which were suggested to him through the stimulus of the occasion. He was fond of attending Grand Army gatherings. At their meetings, called campfires, he used to appear at his best. Surrounded by his old associates, he would recount in a most spirited and entertaining manner stories and experiences of his campaigns. He was a man of extreme simplicity of manners, thoroughly devoid of any pretense. He was a manly man. He was in sympathetic touch with the plain people. He knew all parts of this country well. He was especially interested in the West and its development. His habits were good. He used liquor and tobacco, but always in moderation.

THE LITTLE COMMA.

A Lesson in Punctuation Which Has Its Effect.

A Prussian School Inspector appeared in the office of the Burgomaster of a little town, for the purpose of asking him to accompany him on a tour of inspection through the schools. The Burgomaster, rather out of sorts, muttered, "Does this donkey come again?" The Inspector awaited his time for a proper answer, according to the immortal advice, "Vengeance is a dish that must be eaten cool." When the Inspector was introduced to the teacher, he said he was curious to see how well punctuation was taught. The Burgomaster, the local supervisory authority, said: "Never mind that; we care naught for commas and the like." But the Inspector ordered a boy to go to the board and write: "The Burgomaster of R. says the Inspector is a donkey." Then he ordered him to change the comma by placing it after R, and inserting one after Inspector. Thus: "The Burgomaster of R., says the Inspector, is a donkey." It was a cruel lesson, but it is reasonable to suppose that commas rose in the estimation of the local supervisory authority.

INDIAN TRAINING SCHOOL.

The Indian's Idea of Education as Defined by American Horse.

The Sioux chiefs, on their trip to Washington, visited the Indian Training School at Carlisle, Pa., and the pupils gave them an entertainment. Among the exercises was an essay on the "Indian Messiah," given by Chauncey Yellow Robe, a Sioux boy. He gave as the origin of the craze an imposition placed upon his ignorant brethren by white men and unscrupulous half-breeds. He said the ghost dance was something unknown among the Indians until 1880. Hollow Horn Bear, John Grass and Little No Heart spoke in praise of the school and American Horse delivered an address of nearly an hour, speaking through Rev. Mr. Cook, interpreter. He praised education, but he said he desired the Sioux pupils to use it in detecting the frauds of the whites. He said all the lands first belonged to the Indians. The educated Indians should be given the agency positions. The Government should pay the losses in the recent outbreak and educated Indians should try to have the payment made.

A VISIT TO CARSON.

The Citizens' Committee Are Well Pleased With the Treatment They Received.

The committee of citizens who went to Carson yesterday came back much pleased at the treatment they received at the hands of Mr. Yerington. He manifested a disposition to please and succeeded in convincing the committee that his company did not want anything that they were not willing to accord to the other tax-payers. The Committee on Ways and Means, before whom the citizens' committee appeared, had a chip on their shoulder and were strutting about waiting for some one to knock it off. They were on the war-path from the first and continued their hostile attitude throughout the day, but softened up a little towards evening. The citizens' committee made a good impression, however, and it is hoped that some good will grow out of their visit to the State Capital.

Storm Notes.

The Mojave river bridge at Daggett is washed away, also 2,000 feet of the Barstow bridge, and the town of Barstow is partially submerged. There is no communication with those places save by telegraph.

Two hundred feet of the large railroad bridge west of Los Angeles has been washed away. East of Colton 200 feet of track, the round-house siding and everything movable, has been carried away by the waters. Between Colton and Banning several bridges have been weakened. On the Santa Ana branch the track is under water for long stretches, and in some places has been swept away. South of Downey Station the new railroad bridge has been destroyed and the town itself flooded. Between Seven Palms and Yuma the track is in a very bad condition. Over three miles were swept away.

The Cotton Queen.

Southern papers say that the reason Miss Winnie Davis broke off her engagement to marry Alfred Wilkinson was that the "greatest cotton planter in the world," handsome "Jimmy" Richardson of Mississippi recently cast his millions and his heart at her feet. Miss Winnie is to be the lady of a 70-square mile plantation which supplies the world with 20,000 bales of cotton a year.

SMALLPOX GERMS.

Evidence That Neither Time Nor Fire Will Destroy Them.

The following from the Virginia Chronicle, probably contains some germs of truth, concerning the dread disease: A local physician relates that during the early history of the Comstock it was visited by a smallpox epidemic. The victims of the scourge were sent to a pest-house, located on the Geiger Grade wagon road, for treatment. Several years thereafter, the pest-house was torn down and the lumber of which it was constructed carted into town and used as fuel at a prominent hotel, and its introduction on the premises was immediately followed by another visitation of the smallpox.

ENGLAND'S PROFIT ON SILVER.

Why England Prefers Monometallicism.

The following important question was asked of the New York Financial and Mining Journal: "When England buys an ounce of silver, for which she pays, say $1.00 in this country, and then makes it into rupees for India, how much profit does she make out of the ounce of silver?" The answer was as follows: "The rupee is worth two shillings and a fraction, and one ounce of silver will coin into 2 30-33 rupees, worth 4 0878-10,000 shillings English money. But a shilling is equivalent, in our money, to 24 cents, and therefore the ounce of silver coined into rupees, leaves the mint worth 4 shillings and a fraction over; hence, the ounce of silver is thus made worth $1.4468-100, or 1,000 ounces of silver, costing London $1,000 converted into rupees, would yield to the owner, the equivalent of $1,446.80. As the coinage charge of sterling is but 2 per cent, and 5 per cent more would certainly cover cost of expressage, insurance, commission and interest, making the total 7 per cent; there would be left $1402.33, or a profit of 40 per cent."

DEATH OF GEORGE TUFFY.

Another Old-Timer of Nevada Gone to Rest.

News was received yesterday at Carson of the death of ex-State Treasurer George Tuffy, who died at the home of his daughter Mrs. Parrott, at St. Helena, Napa county, Cal., yesterday. Uncle George, as he was familiarly called, was one of the landmarks in the history of Western Nevada. He came to Carson as early as 1890 or 1881, and for years kept the St. Charles Hotel in that city and became quite wealthy, and some time late in the '70s he gave up the hotel, became interested in the Bullion and Exchange Bank and assumed the position of President and cashier. In 1878 he was elected State Treasurer, and held the office for nearly eight years, and resigned just before the Republican State Convention last fall. He has two daughters, Mrs. Parrott of St. Helena and Mrs. Roberts of Carson. His wife died over a year ago. Mr. Tuffy was a native of Switzerland and nearly 74 years of age.

TOM REED AT HOME.

He Asserts Himself and Keeps an Ugly Stone Laid.

A visitor from St. Louis called on Speaker Reed and says this: I called on Tom Reed at his house in Washington last week. I was shown into the sitting-room, and sat looking around a few minutes, waiting for Tom to show up. On the corner of the mantelpiece, there was squatted the ugliest and homeliest little stone idol or image I ever saw. It was a horrible looking little devil of a thing and I couldn't keep my eyes off it. I got up and went over to it; I couldn't help it. Tom came in and saw what I had been doing.

"Well, 'tain't a pretty thing," said he; "'tain't now. But 'tis useful. A friend of mine down in New Mexico got it somewhere in some Indian truck or other and sent it to me. I stuck it on the mantelpiece there as a kind of an ornament. My wife objected. She said she wouldn't have such a scarecrow around and she spirited it away. Well, I hunted it up and put it back there, and I keep it there now just to assert myself. But 'tain't hand some; no, 'tain't."

Coleman's Body Recovered.

The body of Captain Colcord of the ill-fated ship, Elizabeth, was recovered from the wreck in Tennessee cove yesterday morning by Henry Schmidt of the Golden Gate Life Saving Station. The entire body, frightfully mangled though, was soon uncovered. The corpse was entirely nude, the clothes probably having been torn off by the motion of the sea and the contact with the rocks. Both legs were broken, the neck was dislocated and the back of the head smashed in.

Local and General Intelligence.

It was a little frosty last night. Congress will adjourn next Tuesday. The Stevenson will case has been postponed until March 4th. Berry and Novacovich are doing a heavy business now-a-days. The late storm insures an abundance of water for the summer. The barometer is falling again and indications point to another storm. This is one of the days when it is a hard matter to get a "pull" on local news.

Loaves Labor Lost.

Sir Knight John Dickinson, upon whom the remarkable skin-grafting operation was performed a few weeks ago, died to-day at the hospital. The grafted skin was growing well, but Dickinson's stomach was so weakened by opiates administered when the operations were performed, and also by the long siege of illness, that it finally refused to perform its functions and Dickinson wasted away. It will be remembered that 132 of his brother Knights Templar gave each a piece of his skin in the hope that the spot laid bare, when the cancer was removed, might be healed.

To be Robbed of Health.

By a pestilential climate, by a vocation entailing constant exposure, by physical overwork or sedentary drudgery at the desk, is a hard lot. Yet many persons originally possessed of a fair constitution suffer this deprivation before the meridian of life is passed. To any and all subject to conditions inimical to health, no power or more agreeable preservative of the greatest of earthly blessings can be recommended than Hays' system to climatic change, physical fatigue and mental exhaustion. It eradicates dyspepsia, the basis of sedentary brain workers, preserves and restores regularity of the bowels and liver, when disordered from any cause, habituates fever and ague and prevents it, checks a tendency to rheumatism and gout, and neutralizes the danger of being overworked from causes productive of kidney, bladder and uterine ailments. To be convinced of the truth of these statements, it is only necessary to give this sterling preparation an impartial trial.

IF A BODY MEET A BODY
the result is a collision, whether "coming thro' the eye," or not. Life is full of collisions. We are constantly colliding with somebody or something. If it isn't with our neighbors it is with some dread disease that "knocks us off the track" and perhaps disables us for life. Women especially it seems, have to bear the brunt of more collisions and afflictions than men. In all cases of nervousness, bearing down sensations, tenderness, periodical pains, sick headache, congestion, indigestion, or ulceration and all "female weaknesses," Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to the rescue of women as no other medicine does. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded. SOCIETY IN WASHINGTON.

The Secret of Social Success at the United States Capital.

The material for a salon very possibly exists in Washington, says Harper's Bazar, but the most of it is a little raw and unshined. The average Congressman is not going to worry himself into a dress suit, and go to some clever woman's house merely to talk, to discuss public questions, and say bright things. He prefers to do that at the Capitol, and have it printed in the Record, or pour it into the interviewer's ear, and have it spread broadcast through his district. His ideas of sociability include a bounteous hospitality, and are inseparably associated with bodily food. A thin wafer with a glass of gooseberry syrup and water will not satisfy, stimulate, nor adequately reward his expectations, founded upon even a verbal invitation. He appreciates terrapin and champagne, and getting them, seeks for the ulterior motive.

"I've been asked to dinner twice this session by Smith. What do you suppose he wants?" queried a perturbed Congressman. And this is the all too usual view taken of even the simplest and most friendly hospitalities extended for good-fellowship's sake.

The family of a certain high official of means came to Washington intent upon setting an example of Spartan simplicity and frugal elegance in the way of entertainments. They sent out engraved cards a fortnight beforehand, and the heated and crowded guests were regaled with a vision of a young lady, a teapot and a plate of wafers when they reached the dining-room. Society naturally criticized, and a blunt old soldier wished that the money paid the engraver had been spent on a caterer, and that an informal entertainment had not succeeded a formal invitation. A shrewd, rich and illiterate woman who came to Washington determined to get into society, looked the field over for a season, and said: "I know how to do it. Feed 'em!" And she did, and conquered and rose to that ultra circle which affects to scorn officials and politicians, and hangs upon the diplomatic corps. The secret of such a social success lies solely in the pocket-book, the salad-bowl and the punch-bowl, and is attained by any one who will judiciously distribute their contents. Such circles are the antipodes of a salon, but it is one of the mass of such material that a salon must choose its recruits, and people more or less affected by such social standards and surroundings must be educated and raised to a higher level. Because of this general vulgarity, a salon is all the more needed as a place of refuge for public men and clever people with trained and refined social tastes.

THE BOY MICHAEL ANGELO.

First Work of the Great Artist—How He Received a Suggestion.

One afternoon the Duke Lorenzo de Medici in walking through the garden came upon young Michael Angelo, who was busy chiseling his first piece of sculpture, says Alexander Black in St. Nicholas. The Duke saw in the stone the face of a faun, which the boy was copying from an antique mask, but which, with his usual impatience of imitation he was changing so as to show the open lips and teeth. "How is it," said the Duke, drawing closer, "that you have given your sculpture a complete set of teeth? Don't you know that such an old fellow was sure to have lost some of them?" Michael Angelo at once saw the justice of the criticism. Artists are not always ready to receive adverse comment. Michael Angelo himself was quick tempered and hard to move. A hot word to one of his boy companions on a certain occasion brought so severe a blow in the face that all truthful portraits of Michael Angelo have since had to show him with a broken nose. But the Duke's criticism was kindly given, and was plainly warranted, and the young sculptor could hardly wait until the Duke walked on before beginning the correction. When the Duke saw the faun's face again he found some of the teeth gone and the empty sockets skillfully chiseled out.

Delighted with this evidence of the lad's willingness to seize and act upon a suggestion, and impressed anew by his artistic skill, the Duke made inquiries, learned that Michael Angelo had borrowed stone and tools on his own account, and was at first set at drawing from the statuary, and ended by sending for the boy's father. The result of the consultation was that the Duke took Michael Angelo under his own special patronage and protection, and was so well pleased after he had done it that no flavor seemed too great to bestow upon the energetic young artist. Michael Angelo, then only fifteen, not only received a key to the Garden of Sculpture, and an apartment in the Medici palace itself, but had a place at the Duke's table. In fact, a real attachment grew up between Michael Angelo and the Duke, who frequently called the boy to his own rooms, when he would open a cabinet of gems and intaglios, seek his young visitor's opinions, and enter into long and confidential talks.

BRAZILIAN PEBBLE.

It Makes No Better Lens Than a Good Quality of Glass.

What is called Brazilian pebble is often nothing but a fine quality of glass, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The real Brazilian pebble is a kind of rock crystal, found in many parts of the world, but in great profusion in Brazil, and hence the name. There is a pet superstition that the Brazilian pebble preserves the sight, but no solid foundation for it exists. Fine glass is every whit as good and costs far less on account of the labor and care required to grind the crystal to the proper shape.

The only real advantage the crystal lenses have over those of glass is in the hardness of the material, which renders them much less liable to become scratched and so dimmed, but otherwise the glass is as good. There are several tests by which to distinguish the genuine pebble from the glass imitation, but the most easily applied is that of touch. The real pebble will feel far colder to the finger or tongue than the glass, so much so that after touching a glass lens and then one of crystal any one will be able to detect the difference.

HEROIC TREATMENT.

How Two Squaws Cured a White Man of Fever and Ague.

After a week or ten days the fever somewhat abated, says a writer in Forest and Stream, and Peter, taking my double-barreled rifle by way of armament and half a dozen hard biscuits by way of grub, gave notice of two days' absence, and, buckling his blanket about him, went off up the trail.

Late in the evening of the second day while I was lying on the bearskin with swimming brain and a fevered brow he came back, but not alone. Two strong, athletic squaws, each totting a large pack, were his companions. He introduced them as "Ole Blackbird squaws and he gal; poaty young squaw—great medicine."

The elder of the two was about as tough, leathery-looking a specimen of aboriginal ugliness as I have ever fallen in with, and making due allowances for difference in age the daughter was the perfect model of her. They both cast their loads unceremoniously aside and the elder proceeded at once to business. Watching me closely as she did so she rolled a large handful of leaves in her hand until they were partially pulverized, then passing them over to the younger squaw, who soon made a pint of very bitter tea from them which I was told to drink. I managed to gulp it down, hot and bitter as it was, and the old squaw then seized me without ceremony, packed me snugly in bear-skin and blankets, after which she and her daughter, wrapping their own blankets around them, lay down on either side of me, crowding me in a manner more close than pleasant.

I trust King David's medicine, which answered the purpose so well, was not a squaw—or, if she were, that she was young and good-looking.

My leathery belles answered, however, to help get up a copious perspiration, which was just what they intended, and when I awoke from the first sound refreshing sleep I had enjoyed for weeks it was with a cool, clear head and limbs free from pain.

With the rise of the sun the confounding ague began to threaten me, and Mrs. Blackbird, with the help of her interesting daughter, proceeded to take measures for expelling it in a manner quite as novel and original as her treatment of fever. First she undid a bundle of dirty blue cloth and took therefrom several bundles of neatly bound, minute twigs. I had heard some hard stories of "whippen" out the ague," and smelled a pretty extensive mine immediately, but on the whole concluded to go through, so I suffered them to divest me of my clothing and seize me firmly by the wrists, and made no objection even when Mrs. Blackbird began to apply the switchings gently to the bare skin. Gradually the blows increased in rapidity and severity. Old Peter, who had stood by as a spectator at first, stepped forward and seized a wrist firmly in each hand, so suddenly that I had no time to object; and the whipping immediately became energetic and general. Each of the squaws with a switch in each hand vied with the other in rapidity of hitting, and as the sluggish, torpid blood strove to dash with answering speed through the tingling veins the pain became unendurable. I had resolved to bear all that was asked of me in hope of a radical cure, and the torture was too severe, and I ordered them to desist, trying at the same time to wrench myself loose from Peter. They only laughed and laid on the harder. I became mad with pain and went in on my muscle, biting and butting furiously at old Peter and giving the leathery females ungallant kicks about the ribs and abdomen—a proceeding that made them laugh all the more and brought down the switches with increased vigor. I entreated and cursed by turns, tried bribery and flattery, begged for a resting spell, and threatened death to the party of conspirators immediately I got loose, but all in vain. They flogged me for a time that seemed an age, and only let me off when I was too exhausted to stand alone. Then I almost immediately fell into a deep slumber, from which I did not awake until evening. When I did awake it was with a general sense of soreness all over the outer man; but where was the ague? Gone. Completely cured, as well as the fever.

SURVIVED HIS EXECUTION.

The Soldiers Fired a Volley at Him and Then Marched Away.

A man who has attended his own execution and still survives to relate the details is surely worthy of a short paragraph. The man in question, though at present serving in the humble capacity of waiter in one of the Paris cafes, was, twenty-one years ago, one of the historic characters of the world. His name is Colonel Marteras, and in 1809 he was on the point of being proclaimed President of Uruguay, when he was arrested, charged with treason, and sentenced to be shot.

On Monday, June 30, of that year, says the St. Louis Republic, he was taken by a platoon of soldiers out of the capital to a cleared spot in the heart of a forest and bound to a chair. At the word "Fire!" a nervous shock caused Marteras to fall to the ground. He did not hear the volley, but a laborer working near by did. The workman went to ascertain the cause, saw the soldiers marching away and Marteras badly wounded, but not dead by any means, lying on the ground. The laborer took the would-be president home and cured his wounds, and he and Marteras now often tell of the supposed execution of the "French pretender."

A British Buried City.

It is reported that a British Pompeii or buried city has been discovered on the estate of the Duke of Wellington, in Berkshire, and an exhibition of articles discovered in it is to be held in London. The excavations have brought to view the remains of a house ornamented with mosaic floors and containing rooms heated by hypocausts. Among the articles to be exhibited are pots, dishes, bones, combs, bronze utensils, fragments of good glass vessels, pieces of ironwork, chiefly tools, including carpenter's planes, chisels, axes, hammers, gouges, anvils and some edged tools sharp enough, after having laid buried for ten centuries, to work with now. The city was laid out with great regularity.

Liver Complaint—Biliousness.

The chief symptoms of this disease are depression of spirits, foul coated tongue, bad tasting mouth, disagreeable breath, dry skin, with blotches and eruptions, yellow complexion, yellow eyes, tired, aching shoulders, dull pain in right side, faintness, dizziness, and irregular bowels. This complaint in all of its forms can be readily cured by taking Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills as directed, and a lingering spell of sickness will often be ward off by their use. Sold at 25 cents a box by S. J. Hodgkinson.

Indigestion?
Yes indeed, to see you parading the streets. I thought you had such a dreadful headache. I did mother, but that dose of Cephaline cured it instantly. All druggists sell it.

A Sure Cure for Piles.

This form, as well as blind, bleeding and protruding, yield at once to Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly on the parts affected, absorbs tumors, allays itching and effects a permanent cure. Druggists or mail; treatise free. Dr. Bosanko, Piqua, O. Sold by S. J. Hodgkinson.
